

Participant Information Access Guide

Start here

This guide explains how to find general public information and how service-specific paperwork is shared. It is not a service agreement, consent form, Notice of Privacy Practices, patient-rights notice, or a substitute for service-specific documentation.

1 What you can find on the public website

The public website is designed to help you understand Generations of Hope, explore the available pathways, review general website information, and request a consultation. These materials are for general learning and practical next steps.

Programs and community information

Explore Parenting With Purpose, Becoming Me, Regulate Together, community resources, and current outreach information.

Website privacy and terms

Read the public Website Privacy Policy and Website Terms of Use for information about this website and public requests.

2 What is shared through the appropriate service process

Some materials need to match the actual service, provider relationship, participation format, and current requirements. When appropriate, they are shared through the relevant intake, enrollment, registration, or onboarding process—not posted as public downloads.

Service-specific materials

Examples may include program registration details, participant expectations, payment information, consents, or agreements that apply to a specific service.

Clinical or privacy materials

If a service requires clinical, privacy, rights, telehealth, or other sensitive documentation, the applicable current version is shared through the appropriate secure process.

3 A simple next-step process

1 Explore the website

Review general programs, resources, and public policies at genofhope.co.

2 Request a consultation

Share only practical basics through the consultation page. Do not include detailed health information, insurance information, payment details, documents, or urgent concerns.

3 Receive the right materials securely

If a service is a fit, the appropriate current materials and next steps are discussed and provided through the applicable process.

Keep sensitive information off the public website

Do not use website forms, social media, or ordinary email for emergencies, urgent safety concerns, patient documents, or detailed health information. For immediate mental health crisis support, call or text 988. If there is immediate danger, call 911.
